

How To Take Attractive Photos For Online Dating With Your Smartphone (No Professional Photographer Needed)

You can watch the video breakdown of this guide on YouTube, HERE.

What I'll Be Covering:

- Why the “type of camera” is not the problem when it comes to taking attractive photos
- You may not be unattractive, your photos just may be underselling (my examples shown)
- Why you must stop taking “photoshoot photos” and the actual photos that get results online
- The 3 photos every man should start with (client examples shown)
- How to train your friends to take attractive photos of you
- Personal and client results of doing this

The “Type of Camera” Is Not The Problem...

- Most men believe they need to hire a professional photographer to take attractive photos. You DON'T.
- The more up to date iPhone, Android, Google Pixel, etc, is more than good enough.
- The real problem is most men don't know what type of photos to take.
- They don't know the locations, outfits, angles, lighting, or poses.
- So their photos make them look more average than they actually are. (Assuming they've maximized their physical appearance & presentation)

You May Not Be Unattractive - Your Photos Are Underselling You

- A lot of guys are more attractive in person than online
- Women may call them handsome in real life, but their dating profile doesn't reflect that.
- That means their photos are not translating their real-world attractiveness.
- Your photos have to show your face, body, style, vibe, and lifestyle.
- If they don't, women won't feel enough curiosity to match or meet up.
- If women constantly tell you that you look better in person, your photos might be costing you results.

Stop Taking “Photoshoot” Photos

- You don't want stiff, staged, LinkedIn, polished, looking photos.
- You don't want all 6 Hinge photos that all look like they were taken in the same hour/same day (without variety)
- You want your photos to feel natural, candid or a photo that naturally captured a moment into your life.
- For example: Coffee shop, rooftop, city walk, gym/martial arts, hobbies, activies, restaurant, travel, beach, night flash.
- The goal is to create the “movie trailer effect.”
- Having someone taking a photo of you with a smartphone naturally helps create that effect.

The 3 Photos Every Man Should Start With 🙌

Photo 1: Clear Face / Portrait Photo

- Women need to clearly see your face and what you look like.
- These types of photos are usually taken from the waist up.
- Example: My IAB & 1-1 coaching client - Nathaniel
- You can clearly see his face based on the camera angle and the lighting (this was taken with the flash)
- He's able to showcase his physique subtly through his shirt, and leverage the food and the aesthetic of the restaurant to his advantage.
- Women can clearly imagine being in front of him on the date

Photo 2: Body/Style Photo

- Show your physique & frame without being try-hard or too obvious about it (subtlety is key).
- Clothes should fit well, accentuate your physique and or reveal attractive muscle groups (chest, arms, shoulders, quads, etc)
- Example: My IAB & 1-1 coaching client - Sam
- What stands out about this photo is his outfit, it gives him masculine edge & sex appeal.
- He's able to showcase that he's fit based on his shoulder & arm definition. Plus the cut off tanktop enhances the V-shape.
- The accessories as far as the bracelet, gold pendant and watch, plus the specific clothing colors & the gold, complement his skin tone and bring the entire look together.

Photo 3: Lifestyle Photo/Video

- Showcase where you go, activities that you like to do, give women a glimpse into your life.
- This is why locations like coffee shops, rooftop bars, restaurants, travel spots, or doing a specific activity will stand out to women.
- Having a mix of lifestyle pictures & videos can help not only give women a glimpse into your vibe and she can imagine spending time with you in person, more vividly.
- 1-2 lifestyle videos will enhance the “movie trailer effect” throughout your dating app profiles.
- Keep in mind: One photo shows what you look like. The full profile shows what dating you would feel like.

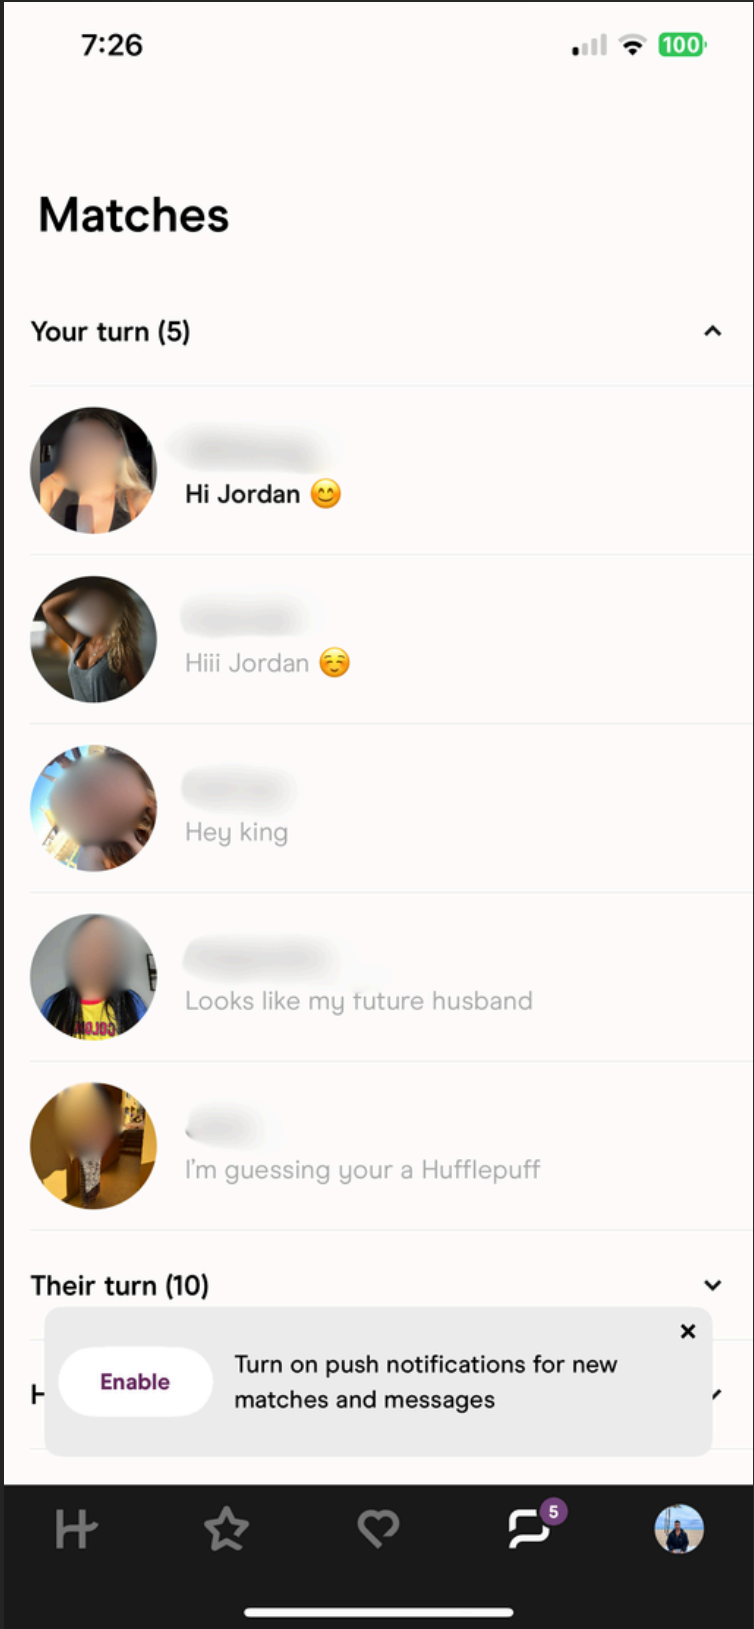

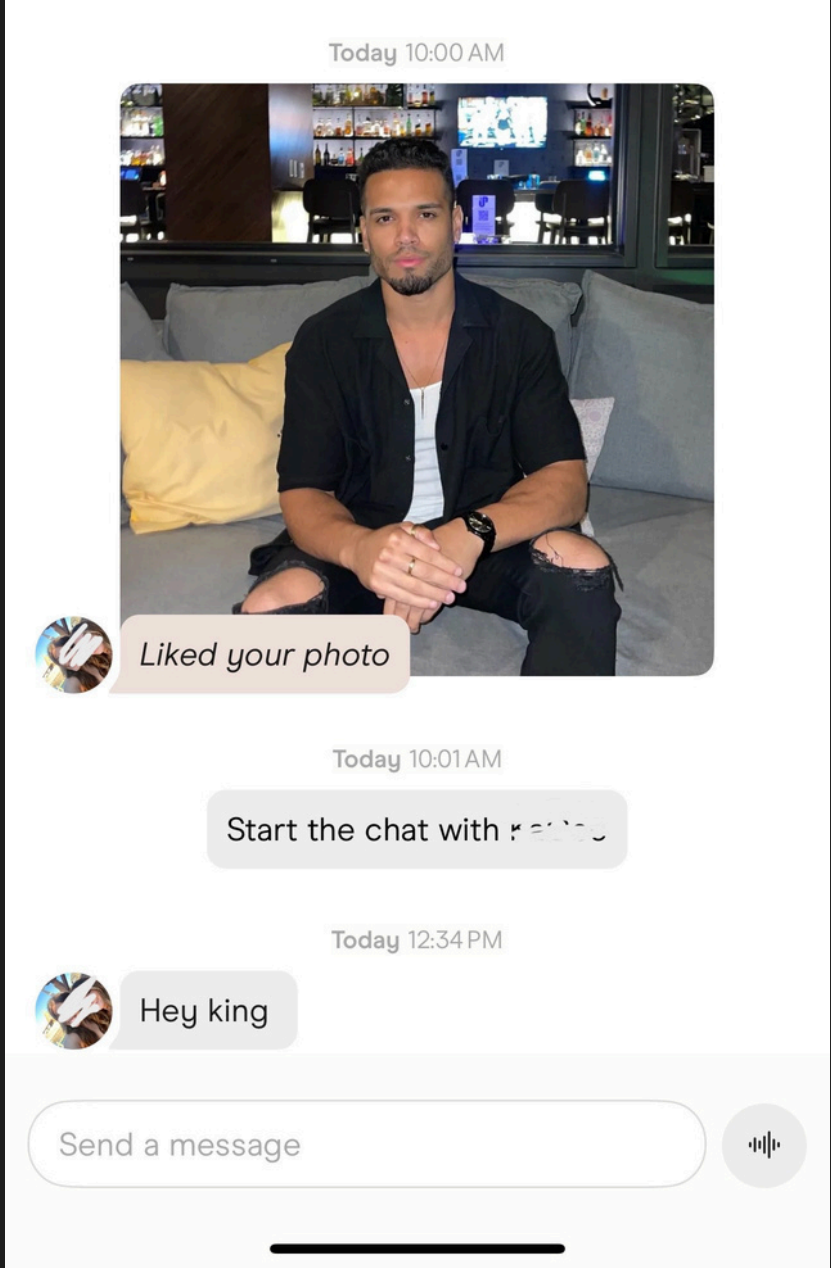

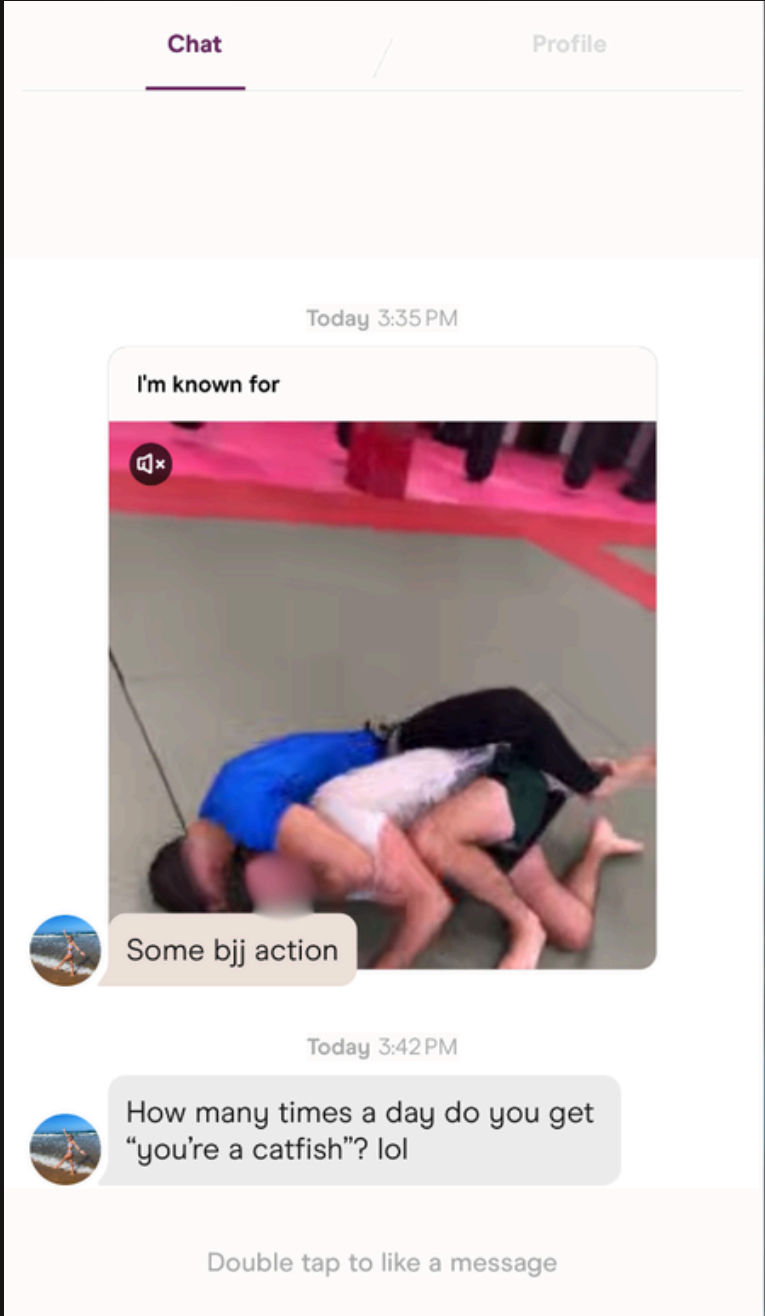

Have Your Friends Take Photos Of You (And A Lot Of Them)

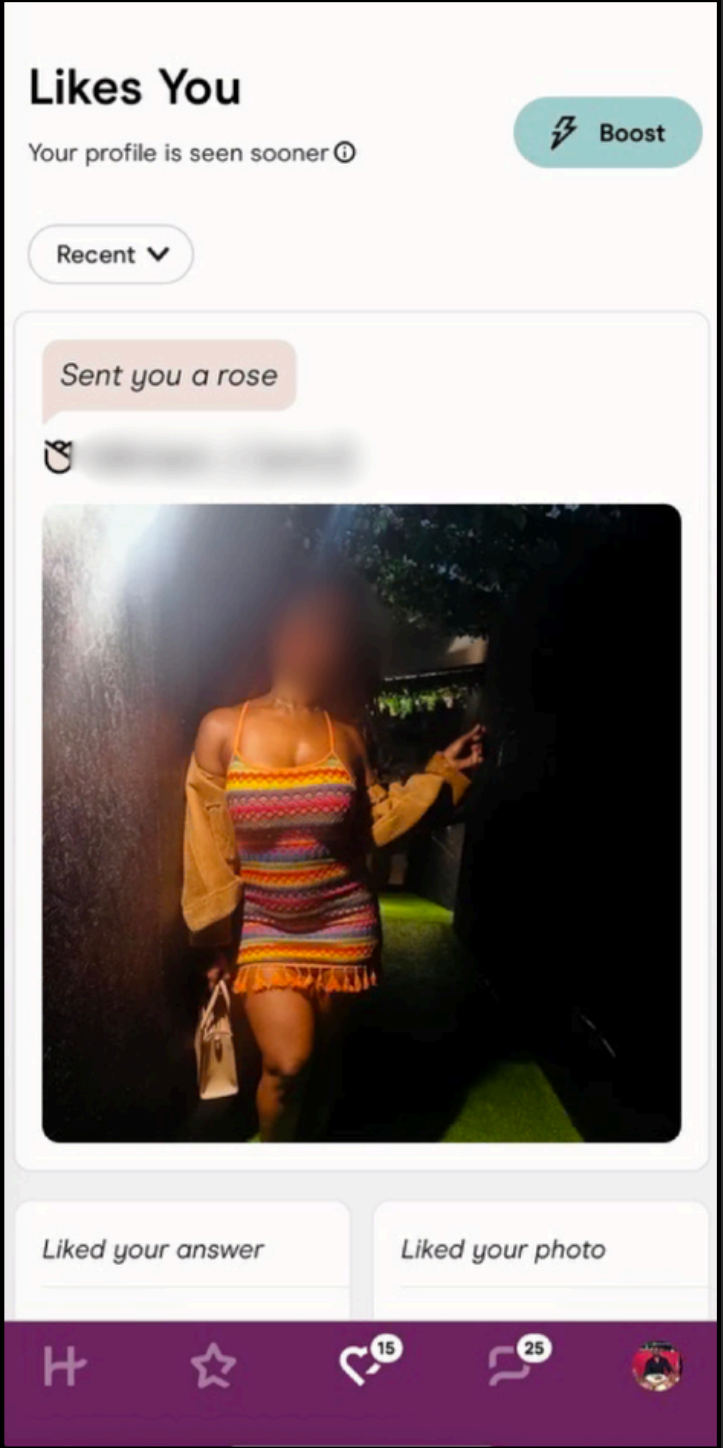

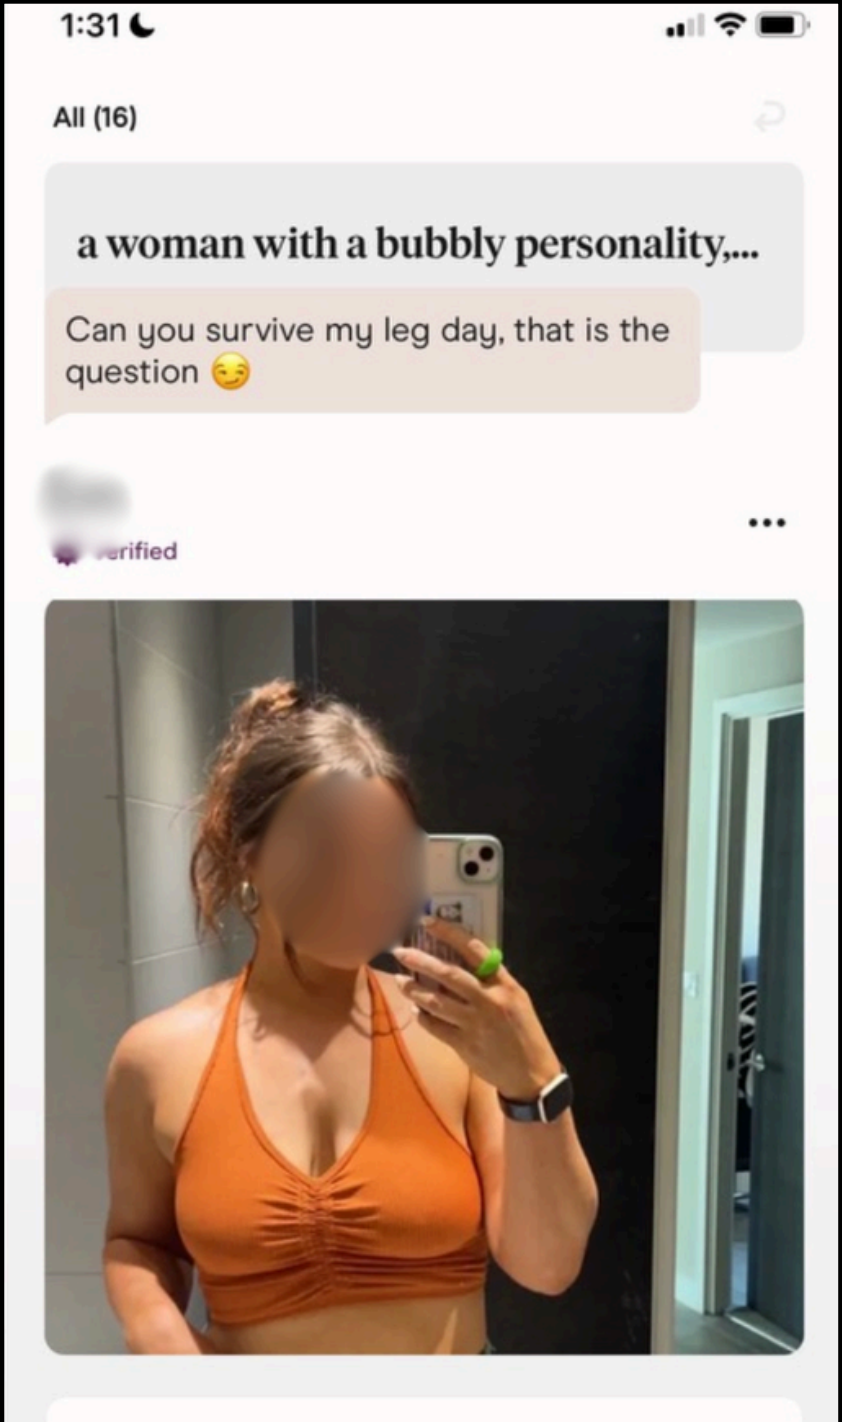

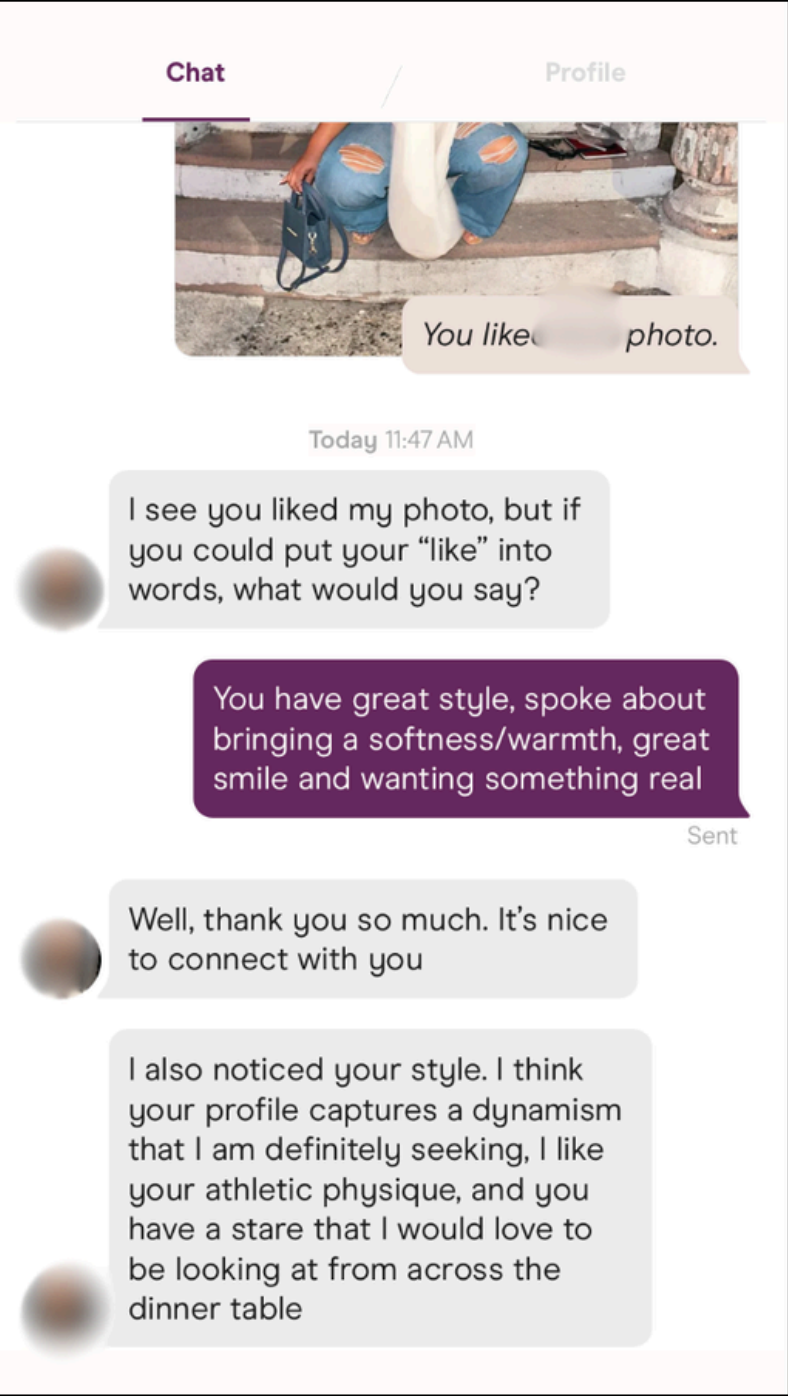

- You don't need a professional photographer to start taking photos for online dating.
- Ask a friend - pay him a bit of money, take him out to dinner, buy him drinks, owe him a favor, etc.
- Have reference photos in mind that you want to model from
- Have 2-3 different locations, 2-3 different outfits.
- Take A LOT of photos. You may take 100 photos and have 5-10 really good photos that you like.
- The total amount of volume of photos that you take will increase the likelihood you get 5-10 high quality good ones.

Results Of Taking High-Quality Photos & Videos W/ A Smartphone

Results Of Taking High-Quality Photos & Videos W/ A Smartphone

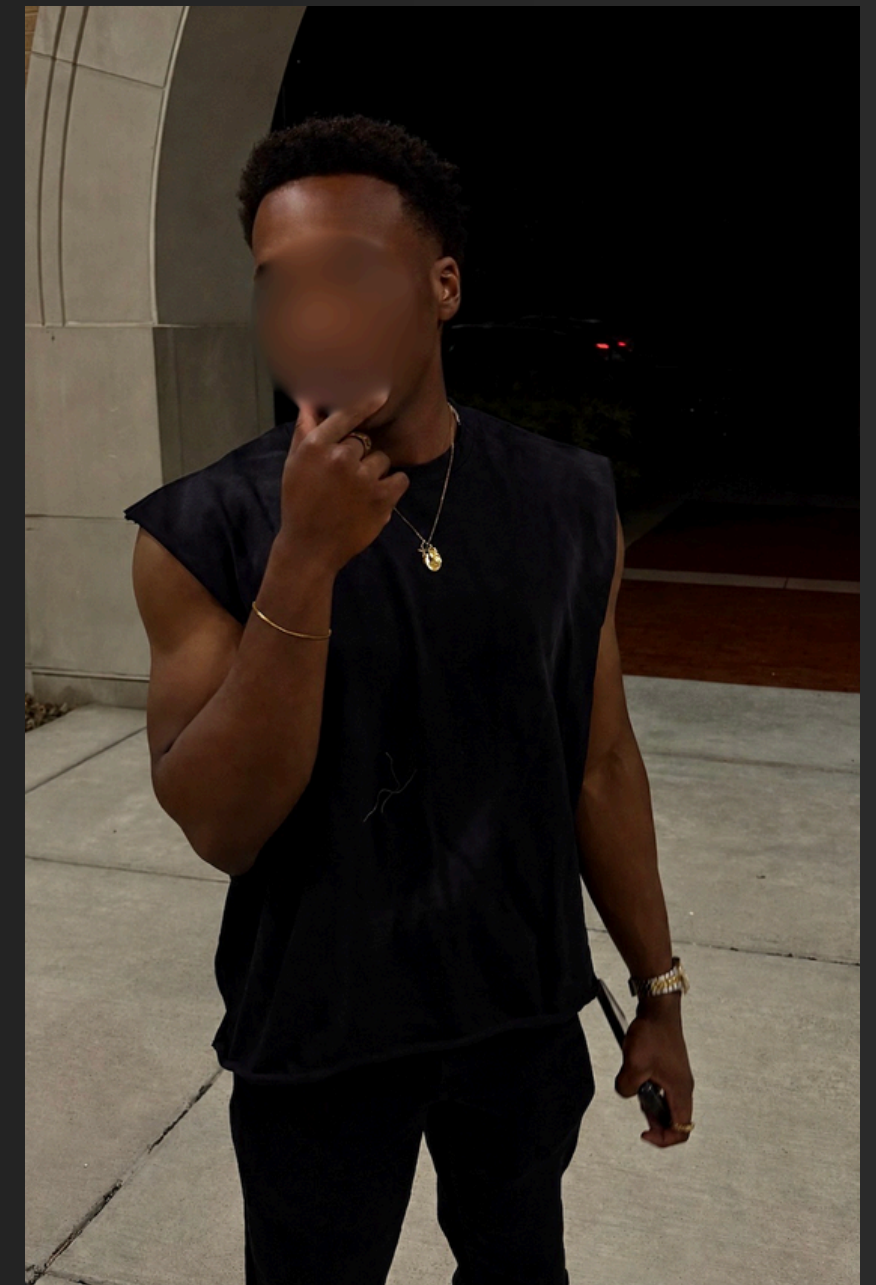

Results Of Taking High-Quality Photos & Videos W/ A Smartphone

If you want help taking more attractive photos to land more inbound likes & matches with women on Hinge:

Check Out The High Quality Photo Blueprint, HERE.

If You Want The Full Transformation & The “Build, Translate & Convert” System:

Check Out The Inbound Attraction Blueprint, HERE.

220 lbs

207 lbs

